DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on April 27, 2004 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
3. Claim 4 recites the limitation "the channel" in line 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. It appears this may have been intended to recite "the recess". Clarification is kindly requested.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1 and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moles (5923799).

Moles discloses a non elastomer substrate (10) containing a recess (12), a flexible elastomer layer (8) overlying the substrate and a layer (either 4 or 6) overlying the elastomer. Refer to figures 1B and 1C and the corresponding text thereto. Figure 1C shows the elastomer as being able to be actuated into the recess (at 22). The layers (4 or 6) both have second recesses therein as recited in claim 4.

Art Unit: 1772

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1 and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kamen (5088515).

Kamen discloses a non elastomer substrate (125) containing a recess (101), a flexible elastomer layer (91) overlying the substrate and a layer (124) overlying the elastomer layer. Claim 4 is met due to the second layer also containing a recess (71). Refer to figure 8 and the corresponding text thereto.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Moles or Kamen.

Art Unit: 1772

Both references teach the invention substantially as recited except for the second layer being an elastomer (i.e. the layer overlying the flexible layer, last line of claim 1). See 35 USC 102 rejections above.

However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to the primary references to form the layer overlying the flexible layer of an elastomer for the purpose of imparting the same properties thereto (i.e. to be flexible) since flexibility is desired in particular layers of a valve as shown by the references.

The IDS's filed January 23, 2002 and September 4, 2001 need to be resubmitted since the print quality is extremely poor and they are illegible and would not be able to be printed upon any potential patent issued to the instant application.
